And if your looking to impress family and friends on what a great chef you are make this Italian crusted lemon chicken.

Tips for success when you make this Italian crusted lemon chicken

The first tip when you make this Italian crusted lemon chicken use a canola and extra virgin olive oil blend.

I find this oil blend best for the flavor the olive oil gives and the high burn temperature of the canola oil.

Second the oil has to be at the right temperature to produce a crispy crust and still be juicy on the inside.

Third I add flour to the bread crumbs instead of a separate flour dip for the chicken. One more tip after breading let your chicken rest in the refrigerator to chill, it helps the bread coating to stick to the chicken, bring to room temperature before frying.
